The Leibniz Research Association “Crisis in a Globalised World” is a network of 24 German Leibniz Institutes, bringing together their research efforts on crisis and ways of dealing with crisis. This workshop is the first in a series of three workshops where we will engage with scholars from all over the world and discuss what crisis means, signifies, and does in different cultural contexts and societal settings. The first workshop will focus on the role crisis and crisis discourses play in legitimizing rule and order in the context of different political systems.
